mJobTime Produces Dramatic Results for GM Randa, Inc.

Chicago Area Concrete Contractor Enjoys Success with Automated Employee Time Tracking System!

Formed in 1988, GM Randa, Inc. is a growing concrete contractor based in Illinois with projects across the Chicago area. They specialize in foundations, slabs, curb and gutter work, decorative concrete applications, and site prep.

For 17 years, GM Randa struggled with a paper system to manage employee time and projects, according to Greg Randa, President. "mJobTime has freed up my time to better manage my business."

"Implementing mJobTime has changed the way we do business," he said. "With our paper system, we would spend 2-3 hours per day trying to code information from the office – looking back anywhere from one day to one week. I felt we were always guessing. It was chewing up valuable time and we didn't have the information we needed fast enough to manage our business. With this system, I put the daily coding burden on key field personnel. After all, who knows better what everybody is doing than your Foreman and Field Superintendents?"

On a day-to-day basis, Randa's foremen are responsible for entering employee and job data into mJobTime using hand-held PDA devices. This information is synched back to the office where it is quickly and easily reviewed, approved, and then integrated into Master Builder. Now, at the end of each day, Randa can see what is going on at each project without ever leaving his desk.

"mJobTime allows me to spend less time in the field because I can stay updated from the office. It has been a tremendous asset to help us keep our projects on budget and on time."

"As long as my field guys and I continue to be receptive to systems and efficiencies like mJobTime, there is no limit to what we can do," Randa says.

In addition to providing quality software, mJobTime also offers on-site installation, implementation, and training by way of their FastStart program. Randa's mJobTime system was professionally installed in June of 2006 and they were able to start saving time and money right away.

"The implementation was fast and easy," Randa said. "mJobTime's service has been terrific. We highly recommend them."
